

ABSTRACT

There are disclosed an apparatus and method for determining or changing a target ROT for a target cell according to measurement ROTs from its 5 neighbor cells in Node B controlled scheduling for improving enhanced uplink dedicated channels in an asynchronous CDMA communication system. The present invention proposes novel signaling procedures for the purpose of determining or changing the target ROT for the target cell.